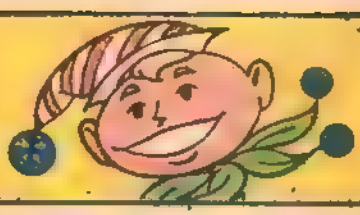
JEST FUN



Two women are discussing a favorite topic: the helplessness of their husbands. "Why, my Joe," said one, "is like Dagwood Bumstead. Can't do a thing for himself."

"That's my Sam all over," replied the other. "Everynight he comes home and shows me the holes in his socks and the places where the buttons are off his shirt. I even have to thread the needle for him!"

• • •

A housewife was complaining to the repairman about her new washer an dryer that was supposed to be so wonderful that it did everything but scrub the kitchen floor.

The repairman tossed a few socks and a shirt in to the machine and turned on the switch. The machine then proceeded to wash the clothing, dry it, fold the pieces neatly and flip them across the room where they landed tidily in the left-hand dresser drawer.

"Well, how's that for modern science?" asked the mechanic. "Nothing wrong with this machine!"

"Oh, yeah," said the housewife. "I'll tell you what's wrong with it. My husband's socks go in the right-hand drawer!"

• • •

Talk is cheap because the supply is greater than the demand.

• • •

Woman fishing: "Have you got another cork, dear? This one keeps sinking!"

• • •

Mechanic: "Madam, I've found out what is wrong with your car. You have a short circuit in your wiring."

Lady Motorist: "Well, very good, then. Go ahead! and lengthen it."

• • •

A newly rich oil millionaire and his wife were having difficulty adjusting to the life of the very wealthy. After the first dinner in their new 40-room mansion, the husband turned to his wife and asked: "Do you wish to have coffee in the library?"

"Too late," replied his wife. "The library closes at six."

• • •

The followup to the above story. Two friends were discussing the new wealthy couple.

"You say that it was she who made a millionaire out of him?"

"Quite true! He was a MULTI-millionaire when she married him."

• • •

Gossip that comes over the grapevine is usually sour!

• • •

Girl on phone: "But, operator, the line can't be busy. I'm the only one who's still on speaking terms with her!"

Young Wife: Don't forget to bring home another mousetrap!"

Husband: "What's the matter with the old one?

Young Wife: "It's full"

• • •

A very short, fat woman bought a new hat that had a bright yellow sunflower sticking six inches out of the top. All around the brim hung various multi-colored tassels. One of her friends finally mustered up enough courage to suggest that the hat was not becoming.

"Oh, I know that," replied the woman cheerily, "but when I meet people on the street I don't want them to say, "Look at that funny fat lady." I'd much rather they'd gasp, 'Heavens, look at that awful hat!'"

• • •

A man walked up to a clerk in a drug store and whispered: "Have you anything for gray hair?"

"The clerk looked around and then whispered back: "Nothing, sir, but the greatest respect."

• • •

Dagwood: "What! Another new dress? How do you think I'm going to get the money to pay for it?"

Blondie: "Darling, you know I'm not nosy!"

• • •

An old jalopy car puffed up and came to a rattling halt at the toll bridge. "Fifty cents," said the guard.

"Solid!" cried the driver, leaping from the car.

• • •

Man: "I want to buy a pillowcase!"

Salesgirl: "What size?"

Man: "Gosh, I don't know, but I wear a size seven hat."

• • •

Discussing his tennis technique, a stout, little man said:

"It's all in the brain! I tell my brain to bark out a command to my body. 'Run forward, but smoothly,' it says. 'Start now. Drop the ball gracefully over the net and then walk back slowly!"

"And then what happens?" asked a friend.

"And then my body asks—"Who ME?"

• • •

Judge: "Twenty days or twenty dollars!"

Prisoner: "I'll take the twenty dollars, Your Honor!"

• • •

Banker: "You're looking for a cashier? I thought you hired one last week!"

Second banker: "I did. That's the one we're looking for!"

• • •

Lady: "I snore so loudly, Doctor, that I wake myself up!"

Doctor: "Then I suggest you sleep in another room."
